

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Haleemah Alamoush

Responsible for preparing, handling and evaluating social responsibility plans at Greater Amman Municipality, Jordan since 2010. Accredited National Expert and Trainer by the International Organization for Standardization (Geneva) in the field of Social Responsibility ISO 26000. She is one of the founders of the Child Friendly City Initiative in Jordan, with extensive experience in the implementation, training and M&E sides of this initiative. Haleemah also participated in capacity building activities (Training, Methodologies Development and Implementation) related to the King Abdullah II Award for Excellence in Government Performance and Transparency. She has significant experience in the field of strategic planning, evaluation and monitoring of the social development municipal sector, with high exposure to the national and international social development arenas. Haleemah holds a BSc in Engineering (1995). She is also a Certified Quality Manager, Certified EFQM Assessor (Institutional Excellence Expert) and Certified Professional Trainer.

Thomas Angotti

Professor Emeritus of Urban Policy and Planning at Hunter College and the Graduate Center of the City University of New York, United States. He was the founder and director of the Hunter College Center for Community Planning and Development. His recent books include Zoned Out! Race, Displacement and City Planning in New York City, Urban Latin America: Inequalities and Neoliberal Reforms, The New Century of the Metropolis, New York For Sale: Community Planning Confronts Global Real Estate, which won the Davidoff Book Award, and Accidental Warriors and Battlefield Myths. He is an editor of Progressive City, Latin American Perspectives and Local Environment. He is active in community and environmental issues in New York City.

Antonio Aniesa

Advisor to the President of the Communauté d'Agglomération Plaine Commune, an association of nine municipalities whose nerve centre is in Saint-Denis, located on the northeastern periphery of Paris, France. Currently, the Plaine Commune is Co-President of the Committee on Social Inclusion, Participatory Democracy and Human Rights of United Cities and Local Governments (UCLG), from where it promotes a political agenda for human rights, solidary metropolises and social inclusion at a global scale. In 2003, Antonio Aniesa founded the World Forum for Local Authorities of Periphery (FALP), which he coordinated for more than a decade as Head of International Relations of Nanterre, France.

Shams Asadi

Human Rights Commissioner and Director of the Human Rights Office of the City of Vienna, Austria. She studied architecture and urban planning abroad before arriving in Vienna, where she graduated from the University of Technology. She has many years of practical and academic experience in Urban Regeneration and Urban Development with a focus on European and international affairs. The human rights dimension of urban development has been a constant since beginning of her professional life and since 2010 human rights have been the main subject of her career.

Jordi Baltà

Consultant and project manager in culture and international affairs and advisor on culture for United Cities and Local Governments (UCLG) (Agenda 21). Jordi is a member of the UNESCO Group of Experts on the Governance of Culture in Developing Countries and regularly works for other organisations, such as the Asia-Europe Museum Network (ASEMUS). Jordi is also Associate Professor at the Blanquerna-Universitat Ramon Llull and works as a consultant and tutor for the online MA in Cultural Management jointly organised by the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya and the University of Girona. Between 2001 and 2014 Jordi worked as researcher and project coordinator at the Interarts Foundation. Between 2010 and 2014 he was scientific coordinator of the European Expert Network on Culture. Jordi holds a BA in Political Science from the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, a Master's in European Cultural Policy and Administration from the University of Warwick and a Postgraduate Degree in International Cultural Cooperation from University of Barcelona. He is currently a PhD candidate in Cultural Policy at the universities of Melbourne and Girona.

Jordi Borja

Professor Emeritus at the the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, España. He has also been Professor at the University of Barcelona and the Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya. Jordi has also taught and consulted for a number of organisations and cities, such as the United Nations, the European Union, New York University and the Pratt Institut (New York), Paris (Grand Paris, Ministère Équipement), FLACSO, Mexico City, Buenos Aires, Santiago de Chile, Rio de Janeiro, Bogotá, Quito, Lisbon, Roma, Montreal, and others. Jordi was one of the founders of the Centre of Urban, Municipal and Territorial Studies (CEUMT), which, between 1972 and 1986, supported the formation of urban popular movements. Furthermore, Jordi has been a member of the Catalan parliament (1980–1984) and member of Barcelona City Council (1983–1995). Later, he was head of the consultancy firm Urban Technology. He studied Law in Barcelona and obtained a Bachelor's Degree in Sociology, a Postgraduate Degree in Urban Geography, a Master's Degree in Urbanism and a PhD from the Sorbonne. He also holds a PhD in Urban Geography from the University of Barcelona. His books include: Derecho a la Ciudad, Conquista Política, Renovación Jurídica (with H. Corti) (2018); Ciudades Resistentes, Ciudades Posibles (with Fernando Carrión and others) (2016-2017); Revolución Urbana y Derechos Ciudadanos (2013); Luces y Sombras del Urbanismo de Barcelona (2011); La Ciudad Conquistada (2003); Ciudad, Espacio Público y Ciudadanía (2002); Local y Global (with Manuel Castells) (1997).

Fernando Carrión

Architect who graduated from the Universidad Central del Ecuador, holds a Master's in Regional Urban Development from the Colegio de Mexico and is a PhD candidate in Social Sciences at the Universidad de Buenos Aires. He has been Director of the CIUDAD Research Center, Director of Planning at the Municipality of Quito, General Coordinator of the CITIES NETWORK for Latin America, Director of FLACSO-Ecuador, Councilman of the Metropolitan District of Quito, Coordinator of the CLASCO Working Group "The Right to the City" and President of the Latin American and Caribbean Organization of Historic Centers. His areas of expertise are: urban planning, decentralisation, urban development, historic centres, housing, citizen security and soccer sociology. He currently serves as the Coordinator of the Area of City Studies of FLACSO-Ecuador. He was editor of Hoy newspaper for more than 20 years and producer of the "Futbologías" radio programme on Radio Quito. He has published more than 1,000 newspaper editorials, 250 academic articles and 37 books. He won the Agustín Cueva Prize. He was recognised by ESGLOBAL as one of the 50 most influential intellectuals in Latin America.

Irene Escorihuela

Irene holds a degree in Political and Administration Sciences and Bachelor's and Master's Degrees in Law. She is specialised in human rights and criminal law and is currently the Director of the Observatory for Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ODESC), where she coordinates publications and advice in public policy design and implementation. Her main fields of action are the right to housing and to the city. She has worked in the public administration and at the University of Barcelona. She has academic and professional experience in Latin America, especially in Peru and Ecuador.

Alexandre Apsan Frediani

Associate Professor at the Bartlett Development Planning Unit (DPU), University College London, United Kingdom. He co-directs the MSc in Social Development Practice and is the DPU's Director of Communications. His research interests include the application of Amartya Sen's capability approach to development practice; participatory planning and design; as well as housing and informal settlement upgrading. Alexandre has collaborated with academics and grassroots collectives in Brazil, Ecuador, Ghana, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Kenya and South Africa. Apart from research and action learning initiatives,

Alexandre has consulted for international development donors and agencies such as Oxfam, Comic Relief, Practical Action and UNDP. Alexandre is a founding and board member of the Sierra Leone Urban Research Centre. He is on the board of Habitat International Coalition and an expert affiliate of Architecture Sans Frontières in the United Kingdom. At the moment, Alexandre is a co-investigator in the research project Knowledge in Action for Urban Equality, leading the work package on translating research into practice that advances urban equality.

Eva Garcia-Chueca

Senior Research Fellow and Global Cities Programme Scientific Coordinator at CIDOB and holder of a PhD in Postcolonialisms and Global Citizenship from the University of Coimbra, Portugal. She holds a Master's Degree in Citizenship and Human Rights: Ethics and Politics from the University of Barcelona (2010) and a European Master's Degree in Human Rights and Democratisation from the European Centre for Human Rights and Democratisation (2005), undertaken in Italy and Denmark. She also holds a Bachelor's Degree in Law from the University of Barcelona (2004). Since 2011, she has been a researcher at the Centre for Social Studies (CES), University of Coimbra. From 2015–2016, she was one of the 20 experts from around the world who took part in the HABITAT III Policy Unit on the Right to the City and Cities for All. The work of this policy unit nurtured the drafting of the New Urban Agenda adopted at HABITAT III. From 2007 to 2014, she served as Executive Coordinator of the Committee on Social Inclusion, Participatory Democracy and Human Rights at the global network United Cities and Local Governments (UCLG). In this framework, she created and coordinated the Inclusive Cities Observatory. Her main interest areas are the right to the city, public policies, local government, postcolonial studies, social emancipation, urban art and urban social movements.

Ricard Gomà

Ricard Gomà holds a PhD in Political Science from the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (UAB) (1992), a Master's Degree in Public Policy from the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow (1989) and a Master's Degree in Urban, Regional and Metropolitan Studies from the UAB (1990). Ricard has been Professor in the Department of Political Science and Public Law at the UAB since 1993 and Director of the Barcelona Institute of Regional and Metropolitan Studies since 2015. He has been a Visiting Professor at the universities of Warwick and Bath (United Kingdom). He has taught doctorate and postgraduate programmes at various universities: UAB, Universidad Pompeu Fabra, the University of Barcelona and the universities of the Basque Country, Sevilla, Salamanca and Complutense de Madrid, as well as internationally at the universities of Warwick, Bath, Turin, Mexico City, Buenos Aires and Belo Horizonte. His latest publications include: El Municipalisme del Bé Comú (with I. Blanco) (2016); Canvi d'Època i de Polítiques Públiques a Catalunya (with J. Subirats) (2018); Social Movements and the Right to the City (with other authors) (2018). He is also the author of several book chapters and articles published by scientific journals.

Michele Grigolo

Lecturer in Sociology at Nottingham Trent University, United Kingdom. Michele has a European Master's Degree in Human Rights and Democratisation from the University of Padua and a PhD in the Social and Political Sciences from the European University Institute, Florence. His research interests revolve around the nexus between human rights and cities. His dissertation entitled "Human Rights and the City: Anti-Discrimination Policy in New York and San Francisco" was the first research paper to deal systematically with what cities do with human rights. He has published the results of his research in academic journals, including the International Journal of Human Rights and Ethnic and Racial Studies. He co-edited the book Global Urban Justice: The Rise of Human Rights Cities (Cambridge, 2016) and recently produced a monograph entitled "The Human Rights City: New York, San Francisco, Barcelona" (Routledge, 2019). This is the first research monograph entirely dedicated to the human rights city. Dr Michele Grigolo has also collaborated on several projects on local governments and human rights for the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights, the Congress of Local and Regional Authorities of the Council of Europe and the Swedish Association of Local Authorities and Regions (SALAR).

Soo A Kim

Soo A Kim is a lawyer and was the Directress of the Human Rights Office of the Gwangju Metropolitan Government, Korea, for three years. She was the fulltime Public Defender of the Jeju District Court in 2015 and worked as a law clerk at the Jeonju District Court and Gwangju High Court for two years. Internationally, she worked as the Program Coordinator at the Asian Human Rights Commission (AHRC) based in Hong Kong for six years (2003–2009). At the AHRC, she was in charge of the Urgent Appeals Program, the Human Rights Education Program and the Nepal desk. She did a one-year internship at the Khmer Youth Association in Cambodia in 2000. In Korea, she worked as the Program Coordinator at the Gwangju International Center for two years (2001–2003). She majored in Chinese History at Korea University and got a LL.M Degree in Human Rights from the University of Hong Kong in 2007. She graduated from the Law School of the Chonnam National University, Korea, in 2013.

Enrique López

Enrique López was Chief of Cabinet of the Third Deputy Mayor's Office of Madrid, Spain, responsible for the Office of Human Rights and Memory. Previously, he was Deputy Secretary-General of the International and Ibero-American Foundation for Public Administration and Policy (FIAPP), from 2008 to 2013, a parliamentary adviser from 2002 to 2015, and Associate Professor of Constitutional Law at the Carlos Tercero de Madrid University. Enrique holds a Degree in Law from the Complutense University of Madrid and a Diploma in Advanced Studies in Constitutional Law ("Fundamental Rights and Public Liberties") from Rey Juan Carlos University. He has been a practising lawyer since 1998.

Jaime Morales

With studies in Architecture, Public Administration and Political Science, Jaime is currently Undersecretary of Human Rights of the Secretariat of Inclusion and Social Welfare of the Government of Mexico City. He has been an activist for the rights of LGBTTTI persons and human rights in general since 1981. He participated in the FHAR Group (Homosexual Front of Revolutionary Action) in charge of the finance group “Hormigas Rojas” from 1980 to 1985, the year in which it was disbanded. Jaime is Co-Founder of the “Fuerza Ciudadana” collective for human rights and promoted the rescue of the indigenous culture of the Central Valleys in Chiapas, Mexico, from 1985 to 1991. He was Administrative Coordinator of the Regional Center of the National Institute of Anthropology and History in the State of Chiapas from 1985 to 1990. Furthermore, Jaime is the Founder and General Coordinator of the “We are also Family” organisation that works in the defence of the visibility of non-traditional families, since its founding in 2010. He is also Founder and General Director of the “Visbullas” association (founded in 2011), and Co-Founder and Spokesperson of the Movement for Equality, Mexico, a collective that integrates more than 183 civil organisations around the country (2016).

Lorenzo Vidal

Lorenzo Vidal is a Researcher in CIDOB’s (Barcelona Centre for International Affairs) Global Cities programme. Holds a PhD in Political Science, Public Policies and International Relations from the Autonomous University of Barcelona (UAB), is a collaborator of the Institute of Government and Public Policy (IGOP) and associate lecturer at the Department of Political Science and Public Law at the UAB. He has been a visiting researcher at the Copenhagen Business School and at the University of the Republic of Uruguay. He holds a Master’s degree in International Economics and Development from the Complutense University of Madrid and a Bachelor’s degree in Philosophy, Politics and Economics from the University of Warwick. His main research interests centre on (the critique of) housing and urban political economy, digital transformations and the real-estate sector, cooperativism and the institutions of the common.

JoAnn Kamuf Ward

Director of the “Human Rights in the United States” Project at the Columbia Law School Human Rights Institute, United States, where she is a Lecturer-in-law and a Supervisor in the Human Rights Clinic. Ms Ward focuses on promoting the use of human rights standards and strategies to foster racial, gender and socioeconomic justice in the United States, along with accountability. This includes research and writing, as well as international and domestic advocacy to improve access to basic rights, such as employment and sanitation, focusing on communities living in poverty. JoAnn engages in strategic litigation, as well as advocacy at the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights and the United Nations to address systemic discrimination and inequality. She also develops resources on state and local human rights implementation and raises awareness of the added value of human rights in local governance. Prior to joining the Human Rights Institute, JoAnn worked in the general litigation group at Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP, and with the Fordham Law School Leitner Center for International Law & Justice.